

Installation and maintenance

Installation service, training and after-sales technical assistance

The delivery of a complex system or installation is perhaps the most difficult part of a job. In this phase most of the adjustments that usually cannot be performed during debugging are often concentrated. TTech offers its customers an installation, start-up and training service with specialized personnel that allows to limit production start-up times to a great extent and provides system management and maintenance personnel with all the information necessary for autonomous and efficient management of the equipment
